PARIS.

VERSAILLES, April 2.—President Thiers has ordered the immediate formation of two large armies, and it is expected that they will be ready for service very shortly. One army, to be commanded by General Duerot, is now forming at Rheims, and will be composed almost entirely of troops lately held as prisoners in Germany. The other will be known as the army of Versailles, and will be commanded by General McMahon.

Paris has received a report of a deplorable condition of affairs in the city. The reports of famine are steadily gaining ground, and provisions are being held at enormously high rates, placing the commonest necessities of life almost beyond reach of the poorer classes. The city is now entirely without gas, and the streets are nightly enshroued in darkness. The Commune authorities have issued a report that it is the intention of governing committee to offer the crown property for sale at auction.

The government is in receipt of authentic information from Paris which states that the Nationals are forming for an attack on this city, which is to be commenced by way of the suburban towns of Neuilly, Surpise, Passy and Antwerp. The preparations being made are stated to be of a very formidable character, and a battle between the Nationals and the army of General McMahon is looked for at an early day.

If the plans of the revolutionists should be carried into effect, the army of Versailles, composed of veterans under McMahon, it is claimed will number 50,000 men. The great activity prevails in military circles here, and the army is being daily increased by fresh acquisitions of returned prisoners.

ENGLAND.

LONDON, April 2.—Grand preparations are being made by the royal household, for the visit by Her Majesty, Queen Victoria, and Emperor Napoleon at Chislehurst, on to-morrow. It is stated that the Queen will be accompanied by the Prince and Princess of Wales, Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise, and a number of others of the royal family. The most extensive arrangements are in progress at Chislehurst for the reception of the distinguished party.

The visit is not looked on as having any political significance, and is considered of an entirely social character. The friends of Napoleon are, however, jubilant over the candid exchange of courtesies between two sovereigns, the attention of Her Majesty being construed by many as evidence for illustrious exiles.

The collision on Saturday between the Paris and Versailles forces took place at Courbevoie. The insurgents took the first position in the morning for some time but were compelled to withdraw by the sharp fire and hard pressing of the government troops. They retreated to the bridge of Remilly, whence they first issued, and here a determined stand was made. Here the fighting lasted for several hours, being carried on incessantly on both sides.

The insurgents were again defeated at this point and withdrew in Paris carefully covering their retreat. This latter precaution was unnecessary, however, as no pursuit was attempted. The loss sustained by the insurgents during the engagement is estimated at two hundred killed and wounded. A number of prisoners who had been captured by the government troops were immediately shot.

Dispatches from Paris have been received, stating that the Bourne had been seized under orders from the Commune, and the issuing of assignments and paper currency will be at once commenced.

FRUSIA.

BERLIN, April 2.—Negotiations for the cession of Luxembourg to Germany have been concluded satisfactorily, and it is announced that the Grand Duchy will in the future form a part of the German Empire.

WASHINGTON.

Joint High Commission—Etc.
[Special Dispatch to the New York Tribune.]

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The result of the Joint High Commission's labors here will be a treaty which, on the part of England, will be operative the day it is signed, as its representatives have plenipotentiary power, but on the part of the United States the Senate will have to confirm the treaty.

It is thought the treaty will contain a clause for the appointment of a Joint High Commission to adjudicate the Alabama claims alone under the conditions to be decided by the present Commission, and that the present body will name the person to have the settlement of the cases. The term of the last named officers will be very long as it will be years to settle them on any basis which can be established.

It seems probable that the Senate will adjourn before the last of the present month, when it is expected the treaty will be concluded, it is not improbable that the President will call an extra session in order to consider the treaty before next December, and to enable the settlement to be begun as soon as possible.

Great secrecy is maintained on the part of the Commission, and no indication as to the points to be embraced in the case will be made known in this country before the treaty itself is placed in the hands of the President.

NEW YORK CITY.

MEXICO.

NEW YORK, March 2.—American advices to March 25th are at hand, stating that the opposition to President Juarez is still very strong, and his impeachment or civil war is predicted. A new cabinet has been formed with Senator Romero as Secretary of the Treasury. It is rumored that Romero will ultimately accept the mission to the United States.

Juarez's birthday, on the 21st, was celebrated in the City of Mexico by a grand banquet. The banquet hall was decorated with Mexican, American and German bunting.

The Prussian Minister, Mr. Schlöser, leaves by the next steamer for Berlin to receive his instructions and return to Washington as Minister of the German Empire.

Dr. Andrus will be seen from the following letter, has accepted the invitation:

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., March 14, 1871.
Dear Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 10th inst., and in reply to inform you that I have accepted the invitation to deliver an address on the occasion of a "public installation" of the officers of Philoxenian Lodge I. O. O. F., which, as you mention, you represent, on the 6th of April, 1871. I thank you and your lodge for your kind and unhesitating honor, and will endeavor to do duty on the occasion mentioned according to your desire. If in this way I can do anything to subvert the interests of your order it will afford me great pleasure. Yours, very truly, in a regard,
R. ANDRUS.

Terrible Affray.

On Saturday afternoon, an affray wherein three or four men came near losing their lives, took place at the corner of Blake street and Madison avenue. One David Stewart cut Henry Kunkle and his son George, the former across the throat, just missing the arteries, and the other on the nose and upper lip. The frenzied man also threw an iron wedge which struck John Morrow, a spectator, on the forehead and knocked him insensible. Fears are entertained as to his recovery.

The affray grew out of a friendly scuffle in Kunkle & Morrow's blacksmith shop at the corner above designated. Stewart was finally arrested by officer Scantlin, after being literally pounded into submission, and lodged in the Station House.

The father and son were taken to the Surgical Institute where their wounds, which were pronounced serious, though not necessarily dangerous, were dressed. They live about four miles west of the city on the Crawfordsville road.

Morrow finally recovered sufficiently to be taken to his home, some five miles from the city, on the Lafayette road. He complained greatly of his head, and is supposed to be more dangerously hurt than any of the rest.

Strange as it may seem, Stewart was released yesterday on bail in the amount of $2,000, for his appearance for examination as soon as the wounded men are able to appear and testify. At eleven o'clock to-day nothing had been done in the matter.

Judge Hughes, for appellants, and the case submitted.

A Man Shot at Stringtown.

James Briggs was enticed into a saloon kept by Frank Hathaway, in Stringtown, yesterday, by a man to the public unknown, where the two drank freely, the stranger footing the bills. Later in the afternoon John Schneider entered the saloon and joined them in their carousals. Briggs and Schneider got to scuffling and finally to fighting, in which the latter is said to have been pretty severely handled. As soon as possible after the row was over Schneider left the room, but soon returned. The saloon keeper met him at the door and refused to let him in, when he drew a revolver and fired at young Briggs, who was standing close by in the saloon. The ball entered near the third breast bone, passed into the chest and was there lost. A second shot was fired but the bullet was made to take effect in the ceiling, the assassin's arm being knocked up just as he pulled the trigger.

The wounded man was taken to the Surgical Institute where his wounds, which are considered dangerous, were dressed, and then taken to his home, No. 27 Blake street. He and a widowed mother reside there. Briggs is quite a young man, is not addicted to intemperance, and is in the employ of Geisenhardt & Co., at their woolen mills.

Schneider is a butcher, and is a very vindictive man when under the influence of liquor. Immediately after the shooting he proceeded to the house of Cooney Gardner, his brother-in-law, a mile or so further west, on the National Road. Shortly after his arrival he was arrested by officers Travis, Keith and Wright, who lodged him in the city prison.

He is now confined in the county jail, where he will remain until the final result of the shooting is ascertained. The Mayor refused to release him on bail.

In this age of such large and important insurance interests, the attention of the public is attracted toward such companies as have by their good and prudent management, and a liberal, fair and square course of adjusting losses, proven their soundness and reliability.

Principal among this class of companies, and we might say the best known and most popular, is the old reliable Security Fire Insurance Company of New York, having, during the past ten years, in spite of reverses and unprofitable years, advanced from half a million to two millions in assets, and to-day standing at the head of the list for soundness and fairness in all their dealings—a record that any company might justly be proud of.

Their home office in New York now occupies the new and commodious apartments in their new building, corner of Park Place and Broadway, giving them the most convenient and best arranged office in the city, free of rent, and in addition 8 per cent on the investment.

After War, Pestilence.
The poison taken up by the atmosphere from the numerous battle-fields in France, where the thousands of dead are either buried or cremated, has commenced to reach the air of cities and villages of that blood-stained country. Typhoid fever, and even more fearful types of disease, have appeared in very aggravated forms; and there is much cause for the apprehension that, unless most vigorous measures are employed, the blast of pestilence will sweep the face of the continent.

A Circular Saw Eighty Years Old.

Mr. J. K. Emerson, of Pittsburgh, writes this communication to the Scientific American: Mr. John Coop came into our factory to-day with an old rusty circular saw, about sixteen inches in diameter, eight years ago, with four cross-cutting teeth to the inch, and a one-inch and a quarter square hole in the center. Mr. Coop says that he made the saw; that is, he sent to Birmingham for the steel, and cut out the saw, and filed the teeth in it, in a dock-yard in England, eighty years ago; he says he used it for sawing, running it in a lathe, and calling it at that time a "fly saw."

Mr. Coop is now nearly ninety-five years of age, and made this saw when a boy of about fourteen years of age.

The old gentleman claims that this is the first circular saw that was ever made in England. I tried to purchase it from him, but he would not dispose of it. He wanted it cleaned up, as he said, to carry to Florida with him, saying that when he dies he means to have that saw with him. Mr. Coop is certainly a rare specimen of longevity and perfect health; he has always lived temperately; eats no meat; never was married, and has never seen a sick day.

A New Use for Vine Prunings.

The new wood prunings of the vine have lately been utilized for making wine and vinegar. After being cut small, they are bruised and put into a vat or mashing tub, and boiling water poured on them, in the same way as is done with malt. One experimenter says that they produce liquor of a fine vinous quality, which, on being fermented, makes a very fine beverage, either mild or strong, as you please, and on being distilled, produces an excellent spirit of the nature of brandy. In the course of his experiments he found that the fermented liquor from the pruning, particularly the tendrils, when allowed to pass into the acetous fermentation, makes uncommonly fine vinegar.
